In addition to Secretary Hoover and Attorney General Daugherty, two of the cabiner members who have been particularly active in shaping the government's course during the strike period, the president was accompanied on the Mayflower by Chairman Cummins of the senate and interestate commerce committee, who already has drafted for introduction in the senate a bill authorizing the executive to take over and operate any individual railroad which does not adequately perform its functions as a common carrier. Before he went aboard the Mayflower. Senator Cummins had indicated that his measure and a similar one relating to coal mines would be formally introduced early this week.
